

Nogal

Juglans Regia

Nogal, Peruvian Walnut, is imported from Southern Mexico, Central, and South America. Nogal has a deep chocolate brown color with sometimes purple underlying hues. Nogal is rated moderately durable even though it can be susceptible to insect attacks. It is typically easy to work and glues, stains, and finishes well. It is often used for furniture, cabinetry, veneers, flooring, musical instruments, and interior trim.

Appearance & Grain

Heartwood tends to be darker than temperate walnut species, with a deep chocolate brown color, sometimes with a purplish hue. May also contain streaks of lighter-colored wood mixed throughout the heartwood, which can sometimes be extensive and result in a high degree of waste. Grain figuring such as curl seems to be much less common than other walnut species.

1-800-999-7616

sales@ohc.net

www.ohc.net/species

PRODUCTS

Window & Door Parts

Veneers

Custom Millwork

Trim & Moldings

Unit, Truckload & Container Quantities Available

CHARACTERISTICS

3.08 lbs/bf
Air Dry Density

Moderately Durable

0.50
Specific Gravity

Easy To Work

Suceptible To Termites

